He Has Lost Two Pounds Since Yesterday, but Feels Strong.

Expects to Be Well Enough to Lecture a Week from Next Sunday Night.

George Francis Train's stomach was suffering from an added vacuity of twenty-four hour norning as he started buoyantly off on his with day of fasting.

THE EVENING WORLD'S reporter found him in his pest, up where the pattering rain makes music on the roof. He was more conventionally attired than hitherto at this hour of the day. His robust frame was clad in a suit of blue flannel, with a stylish crease in the breeches. To-day's boutonniere was of lilacs, bedded in Psychols check has palpably hollowed in this fluel between adipose and emaciation, which looks as if the fat were going to the wall.

'How am I?" he exclaimed, clasping his own "How am I?" he exclaimed, clasping his own hands in friendly greeting. "I am blooming. The problem is getting solved. One week from Sunday night I will show up at Chickering Hall the gigshate frauds of city, State and nation; the approach of financial disaster and civil war, and why becole drop down in the streets of New York with black death, through adipose, which is premature decomposition."

Citizen Train rolled off this category of proximate disaster with a hardy relish in his prophetic insight of the coming desolation. For five minutes he elecuted like a supplement to the Apocalypsa.

phetic insight of the coming desolation. For five minutes he elocated like a supplement to the Apocalypse.

"How is the pulse to-day, Mr. Train?" said the reporter, bearing slightly on the check rein. Citizen George extended his left hand and inhaled the perfume of his iliaes during the count. The beat (the pulse beat, to-wis) is weaker in the stroke, but ticks off eighty to the minute. Then his tongue was inspected. It still has too much of a coat for such a sprinter of a tongue, but is no worse than yesterday.

"I sat in the park yesterday and recoived John Bigelow, George P. Smith, the Philadelphis millionaire; Dr. Goodrich, Dr. Holcomb, Dr. Kelsey and Dr. Miller. Also the children. I took my bath and scaled 179; two pounds more gone:

"Everybody wants me to stop the fast. But when I am solving the problem of life, and am feeling so well. I am hypnotized to go on. I am not seeking any notoriety in this. I'm known wider than any paper is. I advertise the papers; they don't advertise me.

"No." Mr. Train continued joyously, "being nobody, I'm everybody. Going nowhere. I'm everywhere. Wanting nothing, I have everything, Possessing naught, I own the earth and half of Omaha. I own a stream hastening to the coean, not a canal dug with a space. Reliquishment, "continued Psycho, warpning to a sighter epigrammatic expression. "Is post session. Do what you are afraid of and you'll always succeed."

"How is your mind affected by your fast " session. Do what you are afraid of and you'll always succeed,"

"How is your mind affected by your fast t" queried the reporter, with a sense of treading on delicates ground which scientific interest alone could justify.

"It's all right," Citizen Train returned. "I am working as much as ever. I am engaged on my autobiography of one thousand volumes, and then I throw off these things," and the Sage selected from the sea of papers, manuscripts, photos and notes which surged around him on the bed a bundle of acrid, philippics with such burning heads as "Crack of Doom," Blaine's Elephantine Shrinkage, ""Beginning of the End., "Mena, Mone, Tekel, Upharsin" and the like.

Why do you write some things in blue, some things in red and some things in black, Mr. things in red and some things in black, Mr. Train?"

'I don't know," he replied artiessly: "I pever know why I do anything. I do it becames I have to do it. But here is this." and the bronsed Citizen grasped another screed and his green gray eye flashed phosphorescently. "See what this wretch says: The paper tells us that deorge Francis Train takes a Turkish bath every day. Pray, let us know when he will be clean."

Mr. Train had hustied his muse, and that prolific creature, with her airy skirts close gathered about her, had jumped on the throat of this bold scribbler. Psycho served him up with this dash of Tobasco sauce:

"Bohemia has 10,000 men who each could discount his Place with Drain and Point.

'I shall stay in to-day, because I do not want to get my pants wet, "said the faster, with an unadorned common-sense that was quite paralyzing; "I know enough in my fast to go in when it rains. I've got my boutonnière, and so I don't need anything."

The fact is that Psycho's diet for the time being consists entirely of perfume and indignation. He will still fast till the powers give him a pointer on food.

HIS SUICIDE A MYSTERY

NOT WINE, WOMEN OR PLAY DROVE YOUNG LEW S TO END HIS LIFE.

A piece of black crape fluttered to-day from the bell of the flat at 200 West Fourteenth street, formerly occupied by Oliver Perry Lewis, oung man who committed suicide by jumping into the Central Park Reservoir.

The body lay in a cloth-covered box on the side of the parior, and in the next room sat the heart-broken mother and sister of the young A. B. Lewis, the suicide's father, sat in the

he said. Funeral services would be held at 8 o'clock to-morrow evening, and in accordance with his dead son's request Dr. John Hall would officiate.

The circumstances surrounding the suicide of young Lewis are very strange. His father is a wealthy livery-stable keeper in Poughkeepsie and as far as is known the young man could have remained with him, but he preferred to come to New York, where he could be more in-dependent.

dependent.

Several years ago Oliver entered the employ of Johnson & Faulkner. of 35 East Seventienth street. He was promoted and his salary was increased. About a year ago he decided to have his mother and sister come to New York and seep house for him. He secured the flat at 200 West Fourteenth street, but a short time ago he found that his salary of $100 per month was insufficient to keep up the catablishment and for him to dress in the style he had been accustomed to. During the last few days the family had been looking for new aparaments.

On Wednesday evening he attired himself in his dress suit and left the house. His family thought he was going to a party. Instead, however, he went to the Murray Hill Hotel, and after engaging a room, sat down and wrote letters to a score of friends announcing that he was about to kill himself and inviting them to his funeral.

They tried to rescue him, but ware upsucceasful, and it was not until several hours later that his body was recovered.

In the young man's pockets were found two Episcopal prayer-books, several visiting cards and it cents in change, A leaf in one of the prayer-books was turned down to the line.

A good many of them look very much wilted this morning, and the blending and running together of the National colors in the flimsy fabrics has a decidedly inartistic effect upon a ater-soaked ensemble

The weather fiend in the Equitable Building says there is going to be more rain to-day, and that will probably discourage a good many patriotic decorators, but if they put good stuff in their drapery and flags they needn't be afraid that a little water will spoil them. They will all ome out bright and clear when the sun shines

There is one important personage who thus far seems to have been neglected in the general scheme of decoration, and she is Miss Liberty, who lives down on Liberty Island, and who will be the most conspicuous object in the harbor on the day of the Naval Parade.

The has not bad even a new gown for the last three years, and her admirers are beginning to realize the fact that she has been treated very shabbilly. She would look nobby in a gown fashioned in bunting of the national colors, and a spread eagle would add to the pleasing effect, as well as help to modernize her classic garb.

It is clear that semething must be done, and the sooner the Centennial Committee gives its attention to the matter the better. for there is no time to lose.

ANOTHER SNAG SPRINGS UP. ANOTHER SNAG SPRINGS UP.

The rumor that Mayor Grant was to be superseded in his position as presiding officer of the banquet by ex-Gov. Hamilton Fish created a ripule of excitement all over fown this morning.

Who is responsible for this latest change has not yet been announced. Mayor Grant is very resicent and refuses to say anything about it<sup>2</sup> and the members of the Entertainment Committee are mysterious and non-committal.

Committeeman W. E. D. Stokes said this morning: 'I can't say anything about it, for I only attend to business matters connected with the Committee, and have nothing to do with the arrangements for speeches and presiding officers. You must see somebody else.'

SECRETARY BOWEN WORRIED. Secretary Clarence Bowen looked worried when he was questioned about the report.

"I am not authorized to make any statement," he replied to the inquiry as to whether Mr. Fish would preside in the place of Mayor Grant.

"The Committee on Plan and Scope are to have a meeting this afternoon, and perhaps they will give all the reasons and particulars. I have nothing to say myself."
The general impression is that in trying to

The general impression is that in trying to abolish all the McAllister arrangements for the ball and banquet, which had included Mayor Grant in the place of honor at the latter, the Committee has struck a very serious snag, and that dangerous breakers are ahead.

LADIES IN THE QUADRILLE. The members of the Entertainment Committee were given an additional shock this morning by the announcement of the list of ladies who are to dance in the Centennial guadrille d'aomeur. Two lists have been published, each containing sixteen names. There are twelve names on both the lists, but the four others are different in each. Neither list can be taken as official on this account.

both the lass, but the four others are different in each. Neither list can be taken as official on this account.

The ladies who appear on both lists are Mrs. Levi P. Morton. Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Mrs. Levi P. Morton. Mrs. Grover Cleveland, Mrs. Archibald Gracie-King. Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, Mrs. W. Bayard Cutting, Mrs. William Astor, Miss Cora Livingaton, Mrs. Revalud Morris, Mrs. Ebridge, T. Gerry, Miss Louisa Lee Echuyler, Mrs. S. Van Rensselaer, Cruger and Mrs. Alexander S. Webb.

One list has for the four additional names nacessary to complete the set Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, Jirs. Juchanan Winthrop, Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish and Mrs. William Jay. The other has Mrs. Sidney Webster, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams. Mrs. Frederick I. De Peyster and Mrs. John A. Jay.

It is to be observed that the McAllister list has undergone a very radical revision in either case, for in the ex-manager's list the wives of both the committeemen who bounced him were left out.

The members of the Committee were very nuch grieved to find that the list, such as it was, and got out and claimed that it was not authen-ic and that changes might occur before Monday night.
It is understood that Mrs. Harrison will not dance, although her pame appears in one of the lists, and there is also some doubt about Mrs. Astor, who has not yet returned from abroad, but is expected to arrive to-morrow.

Another break made by the Entertainment Committee is the refusal to give a banquet ticket to the Rev. F. Marion McAllister, a brother of Ward, who lives at Elizabeth, and was put down on the list for a place when his brother was manager. Yesterday he went to get his ticket, and was teld that there was none for him, although no explanation was given why his name had been taken from the list.

He had the money to pay for his ticket and offered to do so, but Clerk Bowen turned a deaf ear to his protestations.

The squadrons of the merchant marine naval parade have been all defluitely arranged by Vice-Admiral Woolsey, and it is estimated that the line will be more than fourteen miles in langth. All the ocean steamships and their piers will be gayly decorated during the passing of the parade. ANOTHER BREAK.

TICKET SPECULATORS HAVE BEEN THERE. Ticket speculators are busy working off their supply of seats for the city grand stands. It looks now as if they had captured most of the stands bodily. Even the City Hall stand 25-cent seats have given out, but the speculators have any quantity of them which they are selling at the rate of $1.50 apiece.

The Iron Steamboat Company having limited the number of passengers on their boats for the naval parade have the tickets on sale at pier new No. 1 N. R. and at 1944 Broadway. The boats will leave West Twenty-third street N. R. at 9.30 a. M. and pier No. 1 at 9.45 and 10 a. M.

MARINE MEN TO MEET TO-MORHOW.

Admiral Jonett, Chief of Staff to Admiral Porter, specially requests that the representatives of the yacht and revenue marine expecting to take part in the naval parade next Monday will meet him to-morrow morning at 10, 30 o'clock in room H. on the first floor of the Stewart Building, to arrange the details of this part of the procession. He holds a conference with the merchant marine representatives this afternoon, as which the final arrangements will be perfected.

THE COURSE OF THE DISPATCH.

According to the arrangements of Admiral Porter, the Dispatch, with the Presidential party aboard, will not go direct to Wall street, but will first go up the North River until it has passed the Chicago, which will lead the naval column.

As the Dispatch rounds Robbins Beef Signal the tug Nina, which is anchored there, will fire two guns, and the naval fleet, including the revenue and yacht marine, which is anchored above fledloc's Island, will get under way, and take the course up the North River to Fifty-ninth street, steaming at the rate of six knots an hour. The Dispatch, going at the rate of twelve knots, will come up and pass the fleet, each vessel beginning to fire its salute as the Dispatch goes by.

It is calculated that the latter will reach the head of the column about Fourteenth street, when she will turn and proceed down the river, around the Battery to Wall street and land the President. Meanwhile the merchant marine will be going up the East River.

In consequence of the carly start taken by the President from Elizabethport, Admiral Jouitt has issued an order to his staff to meet him at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street at 7.A. M. FRED RYERS DIED TWICE.

He Had Smoked Too Much Oplum and the Surgeons Couldn't Save Him.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVERING WORLD.] BUFFALO, April 26.-Fred Byers, once a cham pion pool player and a well-known sport died twice this morning after spending the night in a Chinese opium joint ir Broadway near Pine street.

Policemen found him lying in front of the laundry of Hong Kong and Hong King, where he had been dumped in a heap.

His face was purple, and his swollen tongue protruded from his month.

He was quickly taken to the Emergency Hospital, where the surgeons curinto the wind-pipe and inserted a silver tube.

The pulse ceased beating just then and the lungs refused to operate.

"He is dead," said one of the doctors. But they kept on working, and in half an hour had restored the patient to life by forcing artificial respiration.

Ryers, however, remained unconscious, and an hour later he was dead again.

The police raided the opium den, captured the smoking lay-outs and arrested the two fright-oued proprietors as they were trying to escape.

The discovery of the jount and Ryers's death have made a big sensation in sporting and other circles.

Instead of a uniformed Post-Office employed there came simost immediately Engines 4, d and 10, Trucks 10 and 15 and Water Towar No. 1. Chiefs of the First and Second Battalions also arrived and inquired where the fire was.

Mr. Daboli was engaged by Budolph Aronson to create the leading part in "The Brigands," the comic opera which is to succeed "Nadiy" at the Casino May 6. Mr. Aronson made a fruit-less effort to secure Fred Leslie for the part; then he signed a contract with Daboll, who, in the absence of Leslie and of Francis Wilson, had perhaps the greatest opportunity of his life to distinguish himself pre-eminently.

Daboli attended several rehearsals, then the

An old Irishwoman, a friend of the dead man since childhood, knelt by his coffin and said the prayers for the dead in a loud voice.

Many others were on their knees with her and repeated fervent amens to her prayers to God for merey for the dead man's soul.

Upstairs the widow and her children, weary from constant vigil by the side of their beloved dead, tried to get a little rest before joining the sad procession that would follow the body to the grave.

Prominent people of every rank in life, who had known and admired "The Thunderbolt," were pressunt.

Among the many were Mayor Grant, Police Capt. Reilly, Richard Croker, John Purcell, George W. Plunkett, C. C. Reilly. Ourons: Hanley, John J. In addition there were committees from Wyandotte Council, L. of H.; Gramercy Lodge, A. R.; O. U. W.; George B. Meade Post, G. A. R.;

hundreds of people who had known and loved Mige Norton.

The floral offerings were numerous and splen-didly designed. The lower part of the coffin was draped with the American flag.

The pall-bears were the Civil Judges of the city most recently associated with Mr. Norton.

A few minutes after 10 o'clock the funeral cortege left the house and proceeded to St. Anthony's Church, in Sullivan, near Houston streets, where Father Anacletus celebrated a streets, where Father Anacietus celebrated a requiem high mass. After that the body was taken to Calvary Cemetery and interred in the family plot there. So were the last sad rites over a good citizen, a kind husband and indulgent parent performed.

TWELVE MILLIONS PER YEAR.

igarette manufacturers, by which their patrons can earn the originators have been kept ing out daily to the public over 100,000 rould amount to over $10,000 per day. The average and in the purchase of a $20 suit $1 is saved, on Hate, Shoes, Gente' Furnishing, &c., the savings will average from 15 to 50 cents each purchase, while for the ladies who at this season indulgs in Spring millmery and dresses, the purchases being larger, the saving will be ovrespondingly more.

plan the benefits to be derived assume gigantic proper ions. For instance, the merchants under contract in clude this city, Brocklyn, Jersey City, Newark, Hoboken. Yonkers and other suburban towns, covering a opulation of 3,000,000. Allowing one in every five as adult male, with the usual average expenditure of $2 per day, the possible savings will amount to $60,000 per day, nearly two million dellars per month, which, after deducting the cost of the eigerettes (one box to each man per day), will make a net saving o per man will amount to from $25 to $50 per year. By this calculation it will be seen that a handsome saving can be made even if the eigarettes are thrown away.

It seems strange that by the outlay of only five cents for a box of Duke's Cameo.or Turkish Orose Out Cigarettes, which contains a coupon, any one may actually save from $1 to $2 in the purchase of a suit of clothes But so it is, these little green coupous, signed W. Duke. lons & Co., are as good as gold to the extent of five ents on every dollar expended. A little directory in each box of elegaration contain the names of the merchants in the combine, and every serchant there named is bound by contract to allow a iscount of five cents on every dollar of any purchase pon presentation of the coupon, so the purchaser may claim it as right and just from any of these 700 mer-

he patrons of their eigarettes the full benefit; hence holders of coupons should demand their rights and report the name of any merchant who refuses to redeem them. Any such refusal wi the a violation of contract which would expose any of them to a suit at law. No nonorable dealer would violate such a contract. No one is so so rich that a saving is not desirable while the old maxim, "economy is wealth," is a generally accepted truism, and o e that no well regulated family ignores. To enjoy the most at the least possible expense should be the aim of every one. We can see where this enterprising firm have placed a real, lasting benefit, within the reach of all, in their attempt to please their own patrons, and we bespeak for them the

HARLEM'S NARROW ESCAPE.

Wonder that the Pire Was Confined to the Big Electric Light Building. Crowds viewed the smoking ruins of the burned Harlem Flectric Light Company's building on East One Hundred and Twenty-secque street this morning and wondered how the big tenement-bouses which rurrounded it had excepted the flames last night.

Chief of Battalion Reilly says that when the firemen first arrived at the scene several explosions occurred in the Electric Light Company's building, and in a few minutes the whole structure was enveloped in fismes, which leaped into the windows of the five-story tenement-noused which abut on the south and west sides, while the heat set fire to the doors. The total less is estimated at $100,000. Crowds viewed the smoking ruins of the
